

GROSS INSULT OFFERED HIS WIFE DROVE HARRY THAW MAD WITH RAGE EMOTIONAL INSANITY IS THE DEFENCE OF SLAYER OF STANFORD WHITE REMARKABLE PICTURES OF THAW AS HE WATCHED JURY AT MURDER INQUEST

Photographs by Staff Artist special for the Boston American.

Bystander Who Heard Remark Repeated It to Young Millionaire, Who Then Secured Revolver Which He Used.

Continued from First Page.

White picked a revolver in the doorway, and then, standing in the doorway, he fired the revolver, killing Stanford White. There are also the pictures of Thaw, who shot White, and the pictures of the jury, who were present at the inquest.

White is no friend of Thaw. Thaw is a man who is known to be a man of great wealth and power. He is a man who is known to be a man of great wealth and power. He is a man who is known to be a man of great wealth and power.

UNION MEN WASTE FREIGHT AT THE POLLS

Wage Earners' Central Club Formed to Defeat Foes of Labor in the Fall.

The Wage Earners' Central Club of Boston was formed last night in St. Andrew's Hall. The club is a union of all the wage earners in the city, and its purpose is to defeat the enemies of labor in the fall.

DOCTOR HERO SWIMS TO SAVE MAN ON RAFT

With Drug Case in His Teeth, He Reaches Exhausted Boatman Just in Time.

Dr. William J. Porter of Waltham, who saved the life of David Hatch by swimming out to a raft with a case of stimulants between his teeth and saving the boatman from drowning, is the hero of the week.

IMPORTANT NEWS Revised Hourly for Busy Readers.

WASHINGTON. CONGRESS PASSES PURE FOOD BILL. SENATE SURRENDERS ON MEAT BILL. WILL MAKE CASTRO TELL THE MARK.

FOREIGN. CZAR SCORES MUTINOUS GUARDS. STRIKE OVER: 150,000 GET ADVANCE. GENDARME CHIEF HURT BY BOMB.

LABOR NEWS TRADES UNION COUNCIL 96

Disappointed with the ruling of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, the labor union council has decided to take action. The council is a union of all the labor unions in the state, and its purpose is to defend the rights of labor.

LABOR NOTES

Many members of importance were present at the meeting of the labor union council. The meeting was held in St. Andrew's Hall, and it was a very successful one.

OFFICERS Elected.

The officers of the Wage Earners' Central Club were elected last night. The officers are: President, John E. Davis; Vice-President, Jeremiah J. Donovan; Secretary, Charles O'Rourke; Treasurer, Thomas J. O'Rourke.

GENERAL

NOT TO BLAME FOR LEAD. NO MORE FINES FOR POLICE. MAKE BIG SHORE DRIVE. NOTES CLOSE LYNN PARKS. CHILREN WARSHIP FOR ROOF. DEFENDS YANKEE FISHERMEN.

SCHIDLOFSKI SANE; MUST LEAVE HOME

That his last hope his case was commuted to the City Hospital, where he was treated for a long time. He is now sane and must leave his home.

SOILED, WOOD LEAVES HOME

Arthur Wood of Craig place, Brookline, has left his wife and four-year-old child, as the wife says, because she found a letter in his pocket which she thought was from another woman.

BOY ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

With his pockets full of nickels, Louis W. Taylor, a 12-year-old boy of Malden, was arrested yesterday on the charge of larceny.

PROMINENT PERSONS.

WELLMAN REACHES NORWAY. QUINCY FOR COMMISSIONER. CLEVELAND WILL FISH. BOUQUETS AT ITS RECORD.

SEE TOMORROW'S SUNDAY AMERICAN FOR THE NAMES OF THE TEACHERS IN THE EUROPEAN TEACHERS' TOUR COMING

THE LIFE OF A HUMAN BEAST, SAYS ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

MEN OF WHITE'S STOMPE THREATEN DEATH TO THE NATION, SHE DECLARES

Murdered Man Lured Girls by His Wealth and Promises and Then Cast Them Out, Dishonored.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

WHEN the best industrial interests of the land of Jamaica were jeopardized by an animal which insinuated itself into the heart of young fruit and destroyed it before it matured, the government sent to East India and imported the mongoose. Not only did the mongoose kill the fruit enemy, but he exterminated the cobra and other poisonous reptiles from Jamaica.

Harry Kendall Thaw and the Terrenceva girl might each be called the human mongoose. They killed, but in the interest of society. Both committed murder; but both did the earth of dangerous animals; reptiles more poisonous than the deadly cobra, and creatures more destructive to the future of humanity than any four-footed beast or scaly serpent known to the jungle or the sea.

White Lost All Ideals of Success.

Stanford White probably began life as a virile youth of artistic temperament, handsome physique and persistent ambitions. He coveted success, fame and wealth. He won all three, but in the winning he lost those ideals which undoubtedly accompanied him to the altar when he married the mother of his son.

Poor man on the day of their marriage intended to lead shameful and dishonorable life. White, who coveted circumstances and overcame all the obstacles which life throws in the way of ambitious youth, he failed to conquer himself.

He indulged to excess those appetites which God gave man to indulge in moderation. He excited his blood by unnatural stimulants and overworked food and he allowed his artistic and voluptuous imagination full license and looked with envy upon every woman who possessed beauty or charm.

When any man fosters this appetite for a continuous changing feast of innocence, when the love of many women becomes his recreation and his amusement in hours of leisure, he is morally diseased, and if he possesses wealth and power he is more dangerous to society than the leper.

Moral Lepers, Worse Than Animals

Such moral lepers destroyed Pompeii, Rome, Babylon, Nineveh, Tyre, Rodom and Gomorrah. Lower and lower the level of the wild animals, they sink, and that is beautiful. All that is beautiful, all that is God-given, is the relation of the sexes, they degrade and defile. Womanhood is soiled; innocence banished, nature outraged.

As other cities have fallen through the numerous sins of such men and the women they destroy, so our cities will fall, for in the sight of the Creator this is the unpardonable sin of the greatest, the most potent, the most miserable, the most important, the most sacred impulse in the universe—sex attraction.

When a man and woman who have no moral right to possess each other are drawn together by a mighty and violent passion which causes them to lose sight of every moral and social obligation, in the one all-compelling impulse to the spirit, which attracts, or when it goes still lower and farther from God's design, and produces monstrous of diseased cast and morbid ideas and degraded habits, then indeed is a nation and a race in peril. For that is the way to destruction, ruin and death.

Marked such men dwell in the slums or in the haunts of fashion and wealth, they are equally degraded, and when swift and sudden vengeance falls upon them, the least of all their crimes has been added to their list; they have created their own destruction, and the beginning of their punishment.

Only when we are lured into the sin of such men, they are blinded by vanity and ignorance. They imagine it is their own peculiar charm which attracts the man of the world and that by their charm they can hold his roving heart.

Only when it is too late do they understand that the man long since ceased to possess a heart, and that the only woman such a man remembers is the woman who resisted and refused his overtures.

For the worst, the professional destroyer of innocence, the woman who defiles his purpose and defiles his soul, is indeed the only one.

THAW'S WIFE TELLS ALL ABOUT WHITE

By Boston American Leased Wire. NEW YORK, June 30.—Noted actress Thaw, who spent nearly three years in the crowded Madison Square Hotel, and who, during the last of her life, was the wife of Harry K. Thaw, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

UNKNOWN TRIES TO SEE MRS. THAW

By Boston American Leased Wire. NEW YORK, June 30.—A woman, who was married to Harry K. Thaw, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

STUDY OF MOST-TALKED ABOUT WOMAN'S FACE IN THE WORLD TO-DAY

Features of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, whose fatal beauty is responsible for the most dramatic tragedy in years.

HER EYES ARE SOFT AND DEEP AND TENDER.

HAIR OF WARM GOLDEN BROWN.

LIPS WHICH PALE

THE CHERRIES IN HUE

HER NOSE IS A DELIGHT TO PAINTERS AND SCULPTORS

DAINTY AND SENSITIVE CHIN AND ROSE OF PLEASURE LOVING

REMEMBERED.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

His art was loving; Eros set his sign Upon that youthful forehead; and he drew

The hearts of women, as the sun draws dew.

Love feeds love's thirst, as wine feeds love of wine;

Not is there any poison from the vine Which men men drink, like the subtle brew.

Of kisses crushed by kisses, and he grew Inebriated with that draught divine.

Yet in his sober moments, when the sun

Of radiant Summer paled to lonely Fall,

And passion's sea became an ebbing tide,

From that many Memory singled one

Pull up that seemed the sweetest of them all!

The name, and mouth that sucked him and death that sucked him and death that sucked him suffering from lack of facilities in the country, and that he had been married to her for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox. From Her Latest Photograph.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

Thaw, who was married to her in 1900, today said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years. She said that she had been married to him for nearly six years.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMNER ST., BOSTON, JUNE 30, 1906.

Fusion in Pennsylvania Portends a New Political Force

It Blazes the Way for Revolt Against the Domination of the Bosses

Pennsylvania has been always a strongly partisan State. It has been at all times within the present generation Republican, and an overwhelming majority of its citizens have cast their ballots without much questioning, for the Republican candidate, whoever he might be.

The Democratic party in Pennsylvania has heretofore insisted upon putting up its own candidates, without recognizing any intermediary organization, and without attempting to bring into such an organization the voters who were discontented with the regime of Quay or Penrose or of any other boss. As a result, Democracy in Pennsylvania long ago ceased to be a serious political factor.

The revolt against the utterly corrupt Republican machine this year was started by Republicans.

It was started by the people in that party who felt, with a great number of people in the Democratic party, that political organization should no longer be put at the disposal of the hired men of trusts and monopolists.

The Democratic organization in Pennsylvania has been, equally with the Republican organization, controlled until now by these sinister forces.

The regular Republican organization is still so controlled, but it is a bright promise of good government in the future that enough people broke away from the Penrose gang to form a distinct ticket, and that the whole Democratic convention gave its adherence and its official support to that ticket.

The situation in Pennsylvania is only typical of the growing independent thought among voters throughout the United States.

Parties are necessary to our system of government, but when a party passes into the hands of a corrupt boss it is necessary that men having any sense of their duty to their State or nation should revolt against it.

In Pennsylvania enough men to command respect have revolted against the action of the Republican party, and the whole Democratic party of the State, recognizing the reason for that revolt, has in convention assembled approved the chief nominee of the Lincoln party and has cast its lot with the reform forces.

There are Democrats on the ticket of the Lincoln party; there are Republicans; there are Prohibitionists. But all are men who stand for destroying gang rule in politics in their own State.

So standing they represent the one vital political movement in the United States to-day. Everywhere this revolt against the domination of political bosses is apparent and is effective.

Pennsylvania in its Democratic convention has blazed the way.

Jail Will Check

Trust Dishonesty

Fines Never Will. THE PEOPLE, NOT THE CRIMINALS, PAY THE FINES

There comes from Catskill, N. Y., the exciting news that Oscar J. Greene, a grocer, has been convicted in the Supreme Court of selling adulterated syrup and FINED FIFTY DOLLARS BY JUDGE FITTS.

The New York Sun, highly edited, says that this is "conclusive proof that the federal government is capable of effectively protecting the public against fraudulent and adulterated food products."

Very fine nonsense, indeed, from a highly "respectable" source.

Who PAID the fifty-dollar fine that the amiable grocer was commanded to produce?

It was paid by the PEOPLE who have bought his adulterated food the past. It will be returned to him many times, presumably, by people who will buy his adulterated food in the future.

If this grocer had known that he would go to jail for six months,

WITHOUT ANY OPTION OF A FINE, he would have been more careful not adulterating foods that he sold to his fellow-citizens.

THERE OUGHT TO BE IN THIS COUNTRY A NATIONAL LAW

ATTENDING TO IMPRISONMENT WITHOUT OPTION OF A FINE.

EVERY INDIVIDUAL GUILTY OF ADULTERATING FOOD, OR

CHEATING IN WEIGHT, OR OTHERWISE DEFAUDING THE PEOPLE.

If some poor devil had gone into Greene's grocery store and stolen twenty-five cents' worth of the adulterated syrup, WOULD'N'T HE

HAVE BEEN PUT IN JAIL?

Would the judge have said to him, "You have stolen twenty-five cents' worth of syrup, and, therefore, I will fine you one cent?"

If a judge should fine a pickpocket one per cent. of the amount that he stole from your pocket, what would you say?

Isn't that what all the judges in the United States do when they fine the food adulterators, the trust criminals and other classes of

"exempt" thieves?

Here is a grocer who actually steals the money of his customers by taking their cash and not giving them what he pretends to give them, and injuring their health besides.

It is exactly as though he gave them less change than they were entitled to. Why shouldn't he go to jail for stealing? Why should he be allowed to pay back as a fine a very small percentage of the amount that he has stolen from the community?

So it is with the trusts. They are convicted of stealing millions;

the people spend thousands upon thousands to convict them, and then, with a smile of contempt, some little official of the trust pays a fine of five hundred dollars or less.

The real criminals—the "respectable" heads of the trust—scarcely know that the suit is brought. They despise the court and laugh at it —and they say so.

Is this the way to enforce honesty in a nation? Is it any wonder that the business methods of our trusts are threatening ruin to important national industries and bringing the country into disgrace wherever there are honest men abroad?

It is pleasant for the national character to be judged by the acts of a few public villains, who declare that the laws are not made for them?

How long are the people of the United States going to admit, by their laws and in their courts, that it is no harm to steal, IF YOU STEAL

ENOUGH AND ROB EVERYBODY?

When will this nation say:

"We may excuse the small thief who steals from hunger or ignorance. We may let him off with a fine or a warning. BUT WE WILL

PUT IN JAIL EVERY BIG CRIMINAL WHO ENDANGERS THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND THE PUBLIC PURSE."

The people of the United States can stop the national villainy whenever they choose. But they have got to get up sufficient mental energy to think about it for a few minutes at a time at least. They have got to watch their judges JUST AS CLOSELY AS THEY WATCH THEIR

LITTLE CLERK IN THE CASHIER'S OFFICE. THEY HAVE

TO HAVE NATIONAL FEELING—SOME SENSE OF THEIR RE-Sponsibility AS CITIZENS. THEY HAVE GOT TO GET RID OF

SERVILE REVERENCE FOR MONEY WHICH NOW CON-

TROLS THEM.

WHEN WIFEY IS AWAY

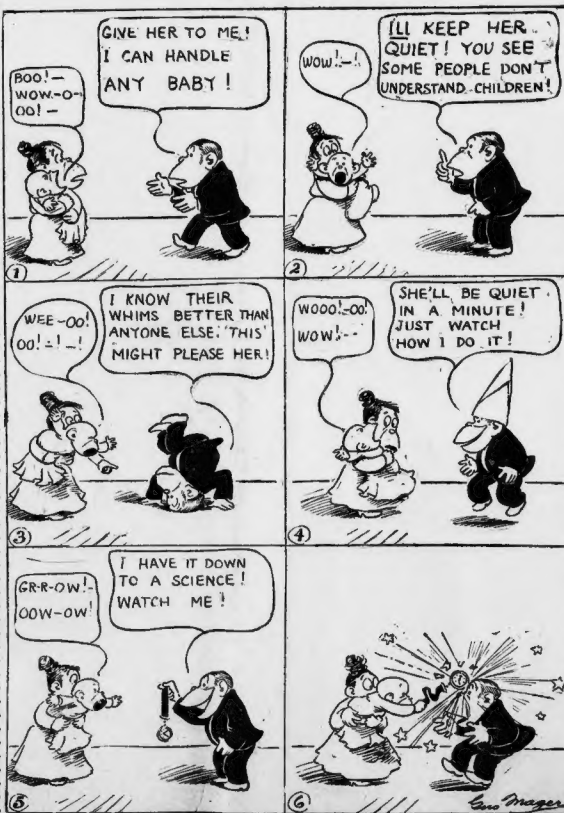

BY T. E. POWERS

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

BRAGGO THE MONK

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE STENOGRAPHER

She Tells Why Women Want to Vote and Refutes
Arguments Advanced Against Woman's Suffrage

By Dorothy Dix

"I REMARKED," remarked the Book-keeper, "that the International Brotherhood of Book-keepers, at their recent convention in Washington adopted a resolution to the effect that the best interest of labor required the admission of women to full citizenship."

"Good for the brotherhood! May their tribe increase!" exclaimed the Stenographer.

"Do you want to vote?" asked the Stenographer.

"No, I want to breathe!" returned the Stenographer. "Of course I want to vote. A vote is nothing but an expression of opinion, and an opinion is formed with opinion on every subject under the sun. Besides, I am not particularly weak, but I object to being legally classed with criminals, idiots and insane."

"It is rather rough on a college graduate," admitted the Bookkeeper. "but it isn't so fierce as the prospect of voting on the ignorant, pauper, foreigner, who has been in the country long enough to learn to speak the language or understand a single principle of our government, and to the unlettered negro, who has to make a cross-mark for his name and doesn't own a second shirt to his back, while you deny it to women."

"The woman who owns a million dollars' worth of property, and can read Greek at sight and spout political economy, is not a very different thing from the ignorant, pauper, foreigner, who has been in the country long enough to learn to speak the language or understand a single principle of our government, and to the unlettered negro, who has to make a cross-mark for his name and doesn't own a second shirt to his back, while you deny it to women."

"I have never been able to see," returned the Stenographer, "why men who are made and gentle and stern and amenable to the dictates of reason for all the years of their lives turn into raving beasts on election day. All the balance of the year they are as sane as the angels in the streets, the care, in business affairs and society, and nobody hurts her. Why should we be led to expect that on election day the entire male sex will be afflicted with rabies?"

"But think," said the Book-keeper, "of women neglecting their domestic duties, and of men neglecting their business duties, and of the confusion that would result if every man and woman who could get away for half a length of time from her house, or from his office, were to do so."

"You can't spend more than five minutes voting," interrupted the Stenographer. "and I have never known a woman who couldn't get away for half a length of time from her house, or from his office, were to do so."

"The same person who takes care of the children while the mother is out voting," said the Bookkeeper. "and the same person who takes care of the children while the mother is out voting," said the Bookkeeper. "and the same person who takes care of the children while the mother is out voting," said the Bookkeeper.

Sparks!

By Rev. Charles A. Crane

IT IS THE last eight years the Standard Oil Company has paid to its stockholders, on its outstanding capitalization of $97,000,000, more than $11,000,000, which exceeds the capitalization of the corporation three times over. That is the price of convenience, which is idleness."

Some one has lately called attention to the fact that the Oxyph moth lacks the faculty of meditation.